VOLUME I

Sport Science, Health and Physical Education 1

Luminita Georgescu, University of Pitesti, Targu din Vale, nr.1, Pitesti 110040, Romania

1. Introduction – definition, concepts, terminologies
2. Relevant historical dates on Sport Science, Physical Education and Health
3. Health through movement – a holistic approach
4. Present knowledge of health and human movement
  - 4.1. Modern trends in preventive health care
  - 4.2. Health related physical activity
  - 4.3. Methodological characteristics of studies concerning Sport Science
5. Interdisciplinary approaches in Sport Science and Physical Education
  - 5.1. The energetic support of physical activity
  - 5.2. Sport pharmacology and doping
  - 5.3. Sports traumatology: risk factors, incidence of injuries and prevention
6. Sport Science, Physical Education and Globalization
  - 6.1. Obesity – a chronic disease
  - 6.2. Challenges of intercultural healthy lifestyle integration
  - 6.3. Sport Science and health promotion: state of the art
7. Conclusions and perspectives

Kinesiology - Human Movement Science 33

Włodzimierz Starosta, International Association of Sport Kinetics, University School of Physical Education and Tourism in Bialystok, Institute of Sport, Trylogii Street 2/16; 01-982 Warsaw, Poland

1. Introduction
2. Movement in human life
3. Movement and accompanying emotions
4. Development of the science of kinesiology and its creators
5. Movement in textbooks of kinesiology
6. Kinesiology - science with many names
7. Kinesiology - rebirth in the best time?
8. Anthropokinesiology in Universities' curricula
9. Recapitulation – Summary
10. Final remarks

Sport and Exercise Physiology: Performance-Enhancing Substances - Anabolic Steroids 56

Thomas Fahey, California State University, Chico Department of Kinesiology, Chico, CA 95929, USA

Michael Kalinski, Chair, Department of Applied Health Science, Murray University, 408 B North Applied Science Building, Murray, KY 42071-3347

Michael Fahey, Chico, CA, USA

1. Introduction
2. Anabolic Steroids: Historical Perspective
  - 2.1. Historical Perspective
  - 2.2. State-Sponsored Doping Research Program in Former Soviet Union
3. How Anabolic Steroids Work
  - 3.1. Steroid Receptors
  - 3.2. Anti-Catabolic Effects of Anabolic Steroids
  - 3.3. Psychological Effects
  - 3.4. Neural effects of steroids
4. Anabolic steroids and performance
5. Health effects of anabolic steroids

- 5.1. Minor side effects
- 5.2. Serious Side Effects: Premature Death, Heart Attack, and Cancer
  - 5.2.1. Steroids and longevity
  - 5.2.2. Heart disease
  - 5.2.3. Cancer
- 6. Importance of dosage
  - 6.1. Why low steroid doses are ineffective
  - 6.2. Health risks of higher testosterone doses
  - 6.3. Are athletes guinea pigs for large dose steroid research?
- 7. Anabolic steroids and the law
  - 7.1. The myth of the level playing field
  - 7.2. Anabolic steroids are unhealthy
  - 7.3. Drug testing and the law
  - 7.4. Should steroid use be permitted in sports?

Comparative Physical Education and Sport

84

Rosa López de D'Amico, Universidad Pedagógica Experimental Libertador, Maracay, Venezuela
 Walter King Yan Ho, University of Macau, Macau, China

  - 3.9.1. Physical activity and its cardioprotective benefits
  - 3.9.2. Physical activity and health and fitness
- 4. Conclusions and perspectives

Leisure and Tourism*187Ricardo Ricci Uvinha, University Of Sao Paulo, Brazil

- 1. General introduction
- 2. Historical overview of leisure and tourism around the world
- 3. Educational perspective
- 4. Career opportunities
- 5. Challenges and trends for the 21st century in leisure and tourism
- 6. Conclusions and perspectives

Exercise and Aging*204

Meiko Asaka, Institute of Advanced Active Aging Research, Waseda University, Tokyo, Japan
 Noriyuki Fuku, Graduate School of Health and Sports Science, Juntendo University, Chiba, Japan
 Yuko Gando, Faculty of Sport Sciences, Waseda University, Saitama, Japan
 Mitsuru Higuchi, Faculty of Sport Sciences, Waseda University, Saitama, Japan

- 1. Introduction
- 2. Effects of Aging and Exercise on Aerobic Fitness
  - 2.1. Effects of Exercise on Aging-related Decline of Aerobic Capacity
  - 2.2. Effects of Aerobic Exercise and Aging on Glucose Metabolism
  - 2.3. Effects of Aerobic Exercise and Aging on Plasma Lipid and Lipoprotein Profiles
  - 2.4. Effects of Aerobic Exercise and Aging on Blood Pressure
  - 2.5. Aerobic Capacity and Physical Activity Levels for Health
- 3. Effects of Aging and Exercise on Cardiovascular Function
  - 3.1. Age-and Aerobic Exercise/Fitness-Associated Changes in Vascular Structure and Function
    - 3.1.1. Carotid Artery Wall Thickness
    - 3.1.2. Central Arterial Stiffness
    - 3.1.3. Endothelium-dependent Dilation
- 4. Effects of Aging and Exercise on Skeletal Muscle Mass and Function
  - 4.1. Age-related Decrease in Skeletal Muscle Mass and Function
  - 4.2. Causes of Age-related Decrease in Skeletal Muscle Mass and Function
  - 4.3. Effects of Exercise on the Age-related Decrease in Skeletal Muscle Mass and Function
- 5. Genetic background of aging-related phenotypes
  - 5.1. Effect of Genetics on CRF and/or Aerobic Performance
  - 5.2. Effect of Genetics on Sarcopenia and/or Anaerobic Performance
- 6. Conclusion

New Realms of Agency: Promoting Peace Education and Gender Equity through Sport*233

Irene Kamberidou, University of Athens, Greek representative of the International Association of Physical Education and Sport for Girls and Women (IAPESGW), Executive Group of the European Centre for Women and Technology (ECWT)

  - 4.1. Program-managed learning in sport
- 5. Didactic foundations of learning in sport
  - 5.1. Principles of traditional didactics and the problem of their transfer into the sphere of motor learning
  - 5.2. Didactic principles in sport

Artificial Control of the Environment for Formation and Perfection of Motor Functions in Sport*213G. I. Popov, Russian State University of Physical Culture, Sport, Youth and Tourism, Russia

- 1. Introduction
- 2. Contradictions in formation and perfection of movement
- 3. Variation of motor modes
- 4. Artificial control of the environment
- 5. From artificially created conditions of training to natural conditions of real competitions
- 6. Implementation of didactic principles in conditions of artificial control of the environment

Evolution of Exercise Machines*233A. I. Netreba, O. L. Vinogradova, O. I. Orlov, State Scientific Center of the Russian Federation - the Institute of Medical and Biological Problems of the Russian Academy of Sciences, Russia

- 1. Introduction
- 2. Free weight
- 3. Modification of constructive solutions
- 4. Modification of loading methods
- 5. Adoption of controlled power drives

6. Appearance of measurement instrumentation
7. Appearance of displays of parameters
8. Training process automation
  - 8.1. Special Features of Algorithms Underlying Work of a New-Generation Automated Training System
9. Conclusion

Sport for All (SFA)*244T. Doczi, Faculty of Physical Education and Sport Sciences, Semmelweis University, Budapest

1. Introduction
2. Historical background
3. Theoretical foundations
4. International policy documents
5. International organizations promoting SFA
  - 5.1. The Association for International Sport For All (TAFISA)
  - 5.2. The International Sport For All Federation/Federation Internationale Sport pour Tous (FISpT)
  - 5.3. IOC Sport For All Commission
